A Corrigendum on

People who die by suicide without receiving mental health services: a systematic review by Tang, S., Reily, N. M., Arena, A. F., Batterham, P. J., Calea, A. L., Carter, G. L., Mackinnon, A. J., and Christensen, H. (2022). Front. Public Health 9:736948. doi: 10.3389/fpubh.2021.736948

In the published article, there was an error made in the Abstract and Introduction regarding the prevalence of mental health service use prior to suicide. In the Abstract the sentence previously stated that:

“The majority of people who die by suicide have never seen a mental health professional or been diagnosed with a mental illness.”

The corrected sentence appears below:

“The majority of people who die by suicide have not had contact with mental health professionals in the year prior to death.”

Further, in the first paragraph of the Introduction the sentence previously stated:

“Notably, over two-thirds of individuals who die from suicide do not receive professional mental health support.”

The corrected sentence appears below:

The original article has been updated.
